April 15-16, 2019

Lecture 1. 15/04/2019 10:10-11:50 - room: 1.2 - Polo Zanotto

The first lecture will show how the final constructions in various languages become the marker of temporal posteriority in narration.

Lecture 2: 15/04/2019 14:00-15:30 - room: 1.2 - Polo Zanotto

The second lecture will introduce the so-called telic construction (e.g. go to school, be in hospital), whose function is to intertwine the spatial reading with the functional one.

Lecture 3: 16/04/2019 12:00-13:30 - room: 1.3 - Polo Zanotto

The third lecture will analyse a quite specific phenomenon in French and Serbian, where the deictic expression loses its indexical nature and becomes a marker of definiteness and a pragmatic particle.
